AUDITORY STEADY STATE RESPONSES

Name: Liam Augustine Vanessa Age/Sex: 6.5months /Male Date: 12/08/2019

AUDITORY STEADY STATE RESPONSES (ASSR) was performed for hearing threshold detection on Biologic Navigator Pro(Diagnostic Equipment). Responses were elicited by presenting multiple 80-100Hz amplitude modulated tones at 500, 1000, 2000, 4000Hz to both the ears. Stimulators used as inserts especially for Neonates/Infants (Instead of routine head phones).

A total number of 10 stimuli (5 in each ear) were simultaneously presented and 10 separate responses detected across said frequencies. Low inter-electrode impedance was reached (less than 5Kohms). Multiple recordings were done at each intensity/frequency level to check the reproducibility of thresholds.

IMPRESSION: Bilateral profound hearing loss.

(Audiologist)

Note: The behavioral and ASSR threshold differences were taken as 10dB, which are likely to be better due to quiet sound booth.
